

This Week in Congress

May 14, 2018

HOUSE

FARM BILL

The 2018 farm bill (H.R. 2) may land on the House floor for debate as early as Wednesday, May 16.

Republicans remain split on the measure, and Democrats are opposed to the bill's work requirements for food stamp recipients.

FARM BILL

Thursday, May 17 is the deadline for administration officials to produce an agreement on NAFTA if they want Congress to vote on the renegotiated trade deal this year.

POLITICO

HENSARLING SPEAKS

On Thursday, May 17, POLITICO will be hosting a discussion with House Financial Services Chairman Jeb Hensarling (R-TX) on the U.S. economy and the fiscal fights ahead in 2018.

SENATE

JUDICIAL NOMINATIONS

Lawmakers have two votes Monday, May 14: the nominations of Michael Scudder and Amy St. Eve to be judges for the 7th Circuit.

TRUMP VISIT

President Trump is expected to meet with Senate Republicans on Capitol Hill Tuesday, May 15 to discuss their legislative agenda.

FED NOMINATIONS

The Senate Banking Committee meets Tuesday, May 15 for a hearing on nominations for the Federal Reserve System Board of Governors.